

LEGISLATURE TO CONVENE MARCH 29

MONEY FOR RELIEF IS OBJECTIVE

Legislators to Report at 1:30 p. m. to Enact Poor Relief Measures

RESTRICT PROGRAM

Governor Makes Statement Calling Solons

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—March 29 at 1:30 p. m. was set as the date and time today by Governor George White for the convening of the General Assembly into special session to enact unemployment and poor relief legislation.

Announcement of the special session will be transmitted to the legislators by Thomas E. Bateman, clerk of the senate, and Capt. John Maynard, clerk of the house.

Governor White's plan to raise funds for unemployment and charity relief activities through an excise tax on public utilities of the state will be presented to the legislature, his announcement of the special session said.

The necessity for the special session, the governor said, comes from the large centers of population where "incontestable evidence exists that the means at their disposal are far below those necessary to meet the relief demand for the year."

The formal proclamation or "call" for the special session, as required by law, will be drafted within a day or two and will restrict the activities of the legislators to the program already announced, the governor said.

He declared that he plans to appear before the legislators personally when they are convened here and read his message.

TO MAIL COPIES
Copies of bills, embodying the governor's recommendations, to be introduced, will be mailed to the legislators sufficiently early to permit them to read them.

MASONIC COUNCIL TO BE INSPECTED

The annual inspection of Tyrian Council, Royal and Select Masters will be held in the Masonic Temple, Friday afternoon and evening, with Professor Robert E. Stoltz, of Ohio State University, as the inspecting officer.

The first session will be held in the afternoon beginning at 3:30 o'clock when the Royal Master and Select Master degrees will be conferred.

At 7:30 o'clock the highly dramatic degree of Super Excellent Master will be portrayed with the full cast of characters.

Dinner will be served by the ladies of the Eastern Star in the banquet room at six o'clock. All members of the Council are urged to attend and visiting companions are cordially invited.

NO PROGRESS IN LIMA'S MYSTERY

LIMA, O., March 17.—There was no good news to report today in Lima's unsolved quarry murders. Instead only the same kind of discouraging information that has been given out frequently since last Decoration Day was available for the parents of Earl Truesdale, 20, and Thelma Woods, 17.

Although James May, 21, a suspect in the murder, was taken to Mansfield reformatory yesterday to face Boyd Ziegler who accuses him of killing Truesdale, authorities said today there was "no progress."

DAUGHERTY SUE'D

WASHINGTON, C. H., O., March 17.—A former ward of Mal S. Daugherty has sued the ex-banker for an accounting, charging that Daugherty owes him a large sum of money.

Daugherty, who has been convicted of misappropriation of funds and the defendant bank of which he was president, refused to give him an itemized statement of his finances. Paul Hixon, the plaintiff charged in a suit filed here.

MINERS RIOT AT LATHROP

1200 Strikers Repulsed By Handful of Officers In Pitched Battle.

LATHROP, O., March 17.—A howling mob of between 1,000 and 1,300 alleged strikers were repulsed today by a handful of officers after a pitched battle at the entrance of the Black Diamond coal mine.

Although they were beaten back by a barrage of tear gas bombs hurled by the 11 officers who defended the two entrances to the mine, the alleged strikers succeeded in carrying out their announced intention to stop the mine from operating.

Officials of the mine said no attempt would be made to operate the diggings this week. The future policy of the mine with regard to operations will be decided at a later date, it was said.

Dempsey Dies

Herculean Infatigable, better known as "Dempsey," the beautiful rough coated St. Bernard dog of R. R. Bales, died Wednesday night of senility having been in a paralyzed condition for several weeks.

He was born in the Herculean Kennels at Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 22, 1921.

Harold Lloyd, the screen star, owns one of his brothers.

Dempsey was only exhibited once where he was judged best dog of his class and best of the show.

While he was powerful and majestic in appearance he was by nature mild, kind and lovable and a true friend of his admirers.

STOCKHOLDERS OF FARM CO. TO MEET

A meeting of stockholders of the Midwest Farm Equipment Co., Clinton-st., has been called for the office of T. A. Remick, attorney, Friday at 7:30 p. m.

The stockholders will organize by electing directors and officers.

Other new officers named when she was elected regent were: Mrs. John S. Heume of Springfield, vice regent; Miss Esther Chance of Florida, treasurer; Mrs. Charles E. Gardner of Norwalk, registrar; directors, Mrs. Frank Hadley of Toledo, Mrs. C. E. Johnson of Urbana, Mrs. Walter Meals of Cleveland and Mrs. Charles Rathbun of Middleport.

OHIO D. A. R. NAME RESIDENT OF XENIA

CINCINNATI, O., March 17.—Mrs. A. C. Messenger of Xenia headed the Ohio Daughters of the American Revolution today.

N. & W. SEEKS TO ELIMINATE SAFETY GATES

Barton Walters, Attorney for Railroad, Lays Plan Before Council

MAY USE WIG WAGS

24-Hour Service Would be Provided Here

Plans to eliminate "safety gates" at crossings of the Norfolk & Western railroad through this city and to install electrically operated wig-wag signals in their stead were outlined to city council Wednesday evening by Barton Walters, local attorney for the railroad company.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Mr. Walters stated that the plan of the railroad company is to place wig-wag signals at the High, Main, Mound, Mill, Union, Scioto, Huston and Washington-st crossings where gates are now employed. The speaker said that by use of the electric wig-wag 24-hour service will be provided at each crossing.

At the Washington, Mound and Main-st crossings service is maintained 12 hours with the S. Court-st crossing the only one in the city which is protected 24 hours each day.

No action was taken by council on the proposition although it is expected a member of the Norfolk & Western's engineering office will meet with Service Director L. E. Miller, and Safety Director J. Wallace Crist in the near future to determine definite plans for the project.

WALTERS COMMENTS

Mr. Walters, in commenting on the plan Thursday, said "The proposition is merely a plan of the railroad company to extend its safety program. The elimination of a number of alley crossings in the vicinity of S. Scioto-st in the past few months in return for which the railroad company paved West-ern-ave so that it joined S. Scioto-st was a furtherance of this plan. The gate elimination program would further aid traffic in and from Circleville."

BOY RESTING AFTER INJURY

Robert Greenlee, 18, who suffered the loss of his left hand Wednesday when a solution he was mixing in the chemistry laboratory of the high school exploded, was reported resting comfortably at Berger hospital Thursday.

Young Greenlee's hand, badly mangled, was amputated at the wrist. Part of his right thumb and the second finger on his right hand were also removed. He also suffered a long cut on the palm of his right hand and was cut numerous places about the body.

An official statement given out from the high school Thursday stated that the youth was not preparing an experiment for a freshman science class as was first reported but was attempting to make gun powder with a dry solution. He was grinding the mixture which is thought to have caused it to explode.

The youth had read how to make gun powder, according to high school officials, and was experimenting when the accident happened.

George Speakman who was in the laboratory at the time of the blast was uninjured although he was unable to hear for three hours after the accident.

The only damage done at the school was to the laboratory table on which Greenlee was working. Its top was cracked.

CLUES FAIL IN MYSTERY

Family Becomes Reconciled To Waiting For Return of Kidnaped Child.

TRENTON, N. J., March 17.—For the 16th day the amazing Lindbergh kidnaping mystery investigation resolved itself into following clues that flared up briefly only to sputter out completely under scrutiny.

"Nothing to assist in the pursuit," or "nothing of value to impart" were the most common reports received by Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, from men assigned to investigate new "leads" in the search for Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

FAMILY WAITS

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, at their Hopewell, N. J., home from which their young son was stolen March 1, maintained their sedulous today. They were reported to have become reconciled to a "watchful waiting" policy in the hope the kidnapers would communicate with them with the subsidence of the furore the abduction aroused throughout the nation.

One clue the police picked up some days ago was to be more thoroughly checked today.

It concerned a blue-green sedan seen by Miss Teresa Deidi, 19, a Wertsville, N. J., music student, near the Lindbergh home on February 22. She told police its three occupants, two rough-looking Irishmen, the other a blond youth, asked the way to the flier's estate.

It was on March 1 that Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was stolen. Between these two dates, what was believed to have been the same car was seen several times in the neighborhood by Alfred Hammond, watchman, at a grade crossing at Skillman and by John Dougherty, a telephone line-man.

GO TO NEW YORK

It was expected Miss Deidi would be taken to New York today to attempt identification of the car's passengers through roguish gallery pictures.

Numerous discouragements encountered by the official investigation.

6,000 Chinese Civilians Die

SHANGHAI, March 17.—More than 6,000 Chinese civilians were killed in the Sino-Japanese fighting in the Shanghai area, according to Shanghai municipal authorities.

In a formal estimate today they set the civilian death toll at 2,000 and missing at 1,000. Property damage was placed at $250,000.

Japanese soldiers preparing to leave for home today were seen significantly waving the yellow flag by the Japanese flag.

Shanghai, a center of Japanese forces, was expected to respond to a Japanese ultimatum when things happened.

The conditions of peace and abroad are increasing in difficulty," he said, "and the responsibility which imperial forces must bear is increasing gravely."

GOVERNOR ASSERTS PROHIBITION IS NOT QUESTION FOR OHIO

BERGER HEIRS NOT TO SEEK HIGHER COURT

City Solicitor Says Heirs to Abide by Ruling of Court of Appeals

TO FILE ACCOUNT

City to Receive Money for Hospital

With the announcement before city council Wednesday evening by Paul Adkins, solicitor, that attorneys for the heirs of the Frank Berger estate do not contemplate carrying the will case to the supreme court following action of the district court of appeals in sustaining the trial court, it was expected the sum of money willed to the city in Mr. Berger's will would be turned over as soon as Irvin F. Snyder, trustee, files an account.

It is estimated the money to be given the city for hospital purposes will amount to nearly $40,000.

CITY'S MOVE APPROVED

The case was carried to the court of appeals following the decision of Judge Harry S. Core of Ottawa, sitting in place of Judge Joseph W. Adkins, in favor of the city. The court of appeals upheld Judge Core's decision. Heirs of the estate who have asserted that the city did not act according to terms of the will have been undecided whether or not to carry the case higher.

Clinton A. Leist is attorney for the Berger heirs, Emanuel Berger, Samuel Berger, Mary Evans, Delano Berger, Laura, Dildine, Joel A. Dunkle, K. D. Groce, K. A. Groce, Elvina Lathouse, Maggie Meyers, Harry Brown, Wayne Brown, Pearl Brown Hedges, Florence Brown, Florence M. Mader and I. F. Snyder.

The city has been assisted by Attorneys George G. Adkins and Meeker Terwilliger in handling the case.

Late News Flashes

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 17.—Harry F. Powers, Clarksburg "bluebeard," who is scheduled to be hanged tomorrow night, said today he will try to carry his fight against the noose to the United States Supreme Court.

Powers who is to be hanged for the murder of Mrs. Dorothy Presler Lemke, Northborough, Mass., divorced at his "murder garage" at Quiddale said plans for an appeal are already made and will be filed with the supreme court if the federal court will grant a stay.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The House today adopted the conference report on the Norris-La-Guardia anti-injunction bill, and sent it to the senate for action.

After approval by the senate the bill will go to the president for his signature.

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Harvey M. Bode, 62, of Pickaway, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court here today listing debts at $15,000 and assets at $12,122.

No Lindy Dimple

It was believed for a time that this child, found with two itinerant couples at Crossville, Tenn., was the kidnapped Lindbergh baby. However, a telephoned detailed description disclosed many discrepancies. Now an 18-year-old mother, Mrs. Virginia Hashagen, has expressed the belief that this baby is her missing son, who disappeared last year while she was on an auto tour through Missouri.

St. Patrick's Day Observed

This is St. Patrick's Day. Everywhere on earth the scattered members of the Irish race are wearing the green to honor the patron saint of their native land.

Fourteen hundred years ago a young man, with the atmosphere of heaven about him, walked through Ireland preaching and teaching goodwill, and when his footsteps had ended the pagan land he was at first had become a Christian country.

Unfortunately, our modern age seems to know more about the folklore of St. Patrick and the snakes in Ireland than about the actual life and work of this great agent in the spread of Christian civilization.

Folklore is one thing but historic fact is another and a more important thing.

It is interesting to note how the dragon and the serpent have figured in the tradition of every country. The dragon and the serpent are found on coins and in legends in every country on the earth. From China and Japan to Greece and Ireland. According to tradition, the king of the serpents collected all his progeny in the Irish isle. St. Patrick determined to try his powers on all the host of them. According to tradition, he succeeded pretty well on the lesser snakes but one old serpent resisted. The good man overcame it by cunning. He made a box and invited the serpent to enter it. The serpent objected.

BURNING SHIP IS OBJECT OF SEARCH

NORFOLK, Va., March 17.—Trace of a burning ship or its crew, which was reported to have taken to lifeboats was frantically sought today by three coast guard cutters which set out from here to assist the rescue of those aboard the vessel.

Radio messages gave the position of the burning ship as 50 miles south of Norfolk Island near the Delaware breakwater. The name of the ship was undisclosed.

The American tanker Sunol reported it saw the ship burning, but did not go to assist as there were other craft nearby.

The coast guard cutter Pinta reported today it was off Fenwick Island looking for the burning ship.

CHILD IS KILLED IN BUS ACCIDENT

RYE, N. Y., March 17.—A child was killed and 18 other persons were injured when a large Boston to New York bus struck a truck on the road today.

The bus skidded on a snow covered bridge and hit the front end of the truck which was standing on the side of the road.

The dead child was Christine Linkfield, 8, of Huntington, W. Va.

Nathan Gilmore, 31, of Newark, N. J., driver of the truck was severely injured and his helper Leslie Collins, 38, also of Newark, suffered scalp wounds.

Statement Quickly Follows Address Before W. C. T. U. Wednesday Eve

TALK INTERPRETED

Drys Troubles by Two Statements Today

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Governor George White declared today that he does not regard the liquor question as an issue in Ohio's gubernatorial election.

His statement followed quickly after a speech he made before the Ohio W. C. T. U. last night in which he told the temperance organization he favors re-submission of the prohibition question to the voters.

The declaration was interpreted as meaning that he stands for a referendum in his campaign for the presidential nomination by the Democratic party but that he does not wish to bring up the issue in a state vote.

If he is attacked for his stand, stated last night, he will feel compelled to reply he said. When he delivered his talk he said, he did not know the women already had adopted a resolution opposing a referendum although he said "such a resolution would not have stopped me."

CONVICT SAVED BY GOV. WHITE

Louis Johns, Scheduled To Die Friday Night, Gets Life Imprisonment.

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Louis Johns, Zanesville convict, was saved from the electric chair today by Governor George White, only a few hours before he was scheduled to be executed for the murder of Henry Gay, aged Civil war veteran, at Cannelville, O.

The governor commuted Johns' death sentence to life imprisonment upon recommendation of the state parole board. Johns was to have been executed tomorrow night.

Lessening of the sentence for Johns was ordered after William Gibbons, who is serving a life term for the same murder, told penitentiary chaplains that the guilt in the killing was principally his.

Scores of requests for clemency for Johns had been received at the governor's office.

Gay, an aged Civil war veteran, was killed after he was robbed of a small sum at his lonely home.

City to Receive Money for Hospital

With the announcement before city council Wednesday evening by Paul Adkins, solicitor, that attorneys for the heirs of the Frank Berger estate do not contemplate carrying the will case to the supreme court following action of the district court of appeals in sustaining the trial court, it was expected the sum of money willed to the city in Mr. Berger's will would be turned over as soon as Irvin F. Snyder, trustee, files an account.

It is estimated the money to be given the city for hospital purposes will amount to nearly $40,000.

CITY'S MOVE APPROVED

The case was carried to the court of appeals following the decision of Judge Harry S. Core of Ottawa, sitting in place of Judge Joseph W. Adkins, in favor of the city. The court of appeals upheld Judge Core's decision. Heirs of the estate who have asserted that the city did not act according to terms of the will have been undecided whether or not to carry the case higher.

Clinton A. Leist is attorney for the Berger heirs, Emanuel Berger, Samuel Berger, Mary Evans, Delano Berger, Laura Dildine, Joel A. Dunkle, K. D. Groce, K. A. Groce, Elvina Lathouse, Maggie Meyers, Harry Brown, Wayne Brown, Pearl Brown Hedges, Florence Brown, Florence M. Mader and I. F. Snyder.

The city has been assisted by Attorneys George G. Adkins and Meeker Terwilliger in handling the case.

Late News Flashes

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 17.—Harry F. Powers, Clarksburg "bluebeard" who is scheduled to be hanged tomorrow night, said today he will try to carry his fight against the noose to the United States Supreme Court.

Powers who is to be hanged for the murder of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northborough, Mass., divorcee at his "murder garage" at Quietdale said plans for an appeal are already made and will be filed with the supreme court if the federal court will grant a stay.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The House today adopted the conference report on the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction bill and sent it to the senate for action.

After approval by the senate the bill will go to the president for his signature.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 17.—Joe Stripp made St. Patrick's day the occasion to sign a 1932 contract with Brooklyn. The former Cincinnati third baseman who had been a holdout with the Reds, came to terms with Manager Max Carey at a conference this morning.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 17.—The coast authorities of Vera Cruz today dispatched a tug in answer to distress signals sent out by the Norwegian steamer, Gansfjord, aground five miles east of Santa Comatan and seven miles west of Zapotitan.

The captain of the vessel in his message for aid said his ship was provisioned for a month and that every one aboard was safe.

WILL NOT REQUEST GUTHRY TO QUIT

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—I. S. Guthry, who remained seriously ill at his home at Larue, O., after a heart attack suffered a month ago will not be asked to resign as state director of agriculture.

No Lindy Dimple

It was believed for a time that this child, found with two itinerant couples at Crossville, Tenn., was the kidnapped Lindbergh baby. However, a telephone detailed description disclosed many discrepancies. Now an 18-year-old mother, Mrs. Virginia Hashagen, has expressed the belief that this baby is her missing son, who disappeared last year while she was on an auto tour through Missouri.

St. Patrick's Day Observed

This is St. Patrick's Day. Everywhere on earth the scattered members of the Irish race are wearing the green to honor the patron saint of their native land. Fourteen hundred years ago a young man, with the atmosphere of heaven about him, walked through Ireland preaching and teaching goodwill, and when his footsteps had ended the pagan land he was at first had become a Christian country.

Unfortunately, our modern age seems to know more about the folklore of St. Patrick and the snakes in Ireland than about the actual life and work of this great agent in the spread of Christian civilization.

Folklore is one thing but historic fact is another and a more important thing.

It is interesting to note how the dragon and the serpent have figured in the tradition of every country. The dragon and the dragon-slayer are found on coins and in legends in every country on the earth, from China and Japan to Greece and Ireland. According to tradition, the king of the serpents collected all his progeny in the Irish isle. St. Patrick determined to try his powers on all the host of them. According to tradition, he succeeded pretty well on the lesser snakes but one old serpent resisted. The good man overcame it by cunning. He made a box and invited the serpent to enter it. The serpent objected.

BURNING SHIP IS OBJECT OF SEARCH

NORFOLK, Va., March 17.—Trace of a burning ship or its crew, which was reported to have taken to lifeboats, was frantically sought today by three coast guard cutters which set out from here to assist the rescue of those aboard the vessel.

Radio messages gave the position of the flaming ship as 50 miles south of Fenwick Island near the Delaware breakwater. The name of the craft was undisclosed. The American tanker Sunoil reported it saw the ship burning, but did not stand by as there were other crafts nearby.

The coast guard cutter Pulaski reported today it was off Fenwick Island looking for the burning ship.

MRS. SCOWDEN DIES

Mrs. Louella T. Scowden, 67, of Portsmouth, a sister of Mrs. E. J. Hughes, wife of a former United Brethren minister here, died Wednesday at the home of a daughter Mrs. Lulu Wright in Columbus.

The funeral will be in Ironton Friday.

Statement Quickly Follows Address Before W. C. T. U. Wednesday Eve

TALK INTERPRETED

Drys Troubles by Two Statements Today

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.

—Governor George White declared today that he does not regard the liquor question as an issue in Ohio's gubernatorial election.

His statement followed quickly after a speech he made before the Ohio W. C. T. U. last night in which he told the temperance organization he favors re-submission of the prohibition question to the voters.

The declaration was interpreted as meaning that he stands for a referendum in his campaign for the presidential nomination by the Democratic party but that he does not wish to bring up the issue in a state vote.

If he is attacked for his stand, stated last night, he will feel compelled to reply to it. When he delivered his talk he said, he did not know the women already had adopted a resolution opposing a referendum although he said "such a resolution would not have stopped me."

CONVICT SAVED BY GOV. WHITE

Louis Johns, Scheduled To Die Friday Night, Gets Life Imprisonment.

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Louis Johns, Zanesville convict, was saved from the electric chair today by Governor George White, only a few hours before he was scheduled to be executed for the murder of Henry Gay, aged Civil War veteran, at Canonsville, O.

The governor commuted Johns' death sentence to life imprisonment upon recommendation of the state parole board. Johns was to have been executed tomorrow night.

Lessening of the sentence for Johns was ordered after William Gibbons, who is serving a life term for the same murder, told penitentiary chaplains that the guilt in the killing was principally his.

Scores of requests for clemency for Johns had been received at the governor's office.

Gay, an aged Civil War veteran, was killed after he was robbed of a small sum at his lonely home.

CHILD IS KILLED IN BUS ACCIDENT

RYE, N. Y., March 17.—A child was killed and 18 other persons were injured when a large Boston to New York bus struck a truck on the post road today.

The bus skidded on a snow covered bridge and hit the front end of the truck which was standing on the side of the road.

The dead child was Christine Linkfield, 8, of Huntington, W. Va.

Nathan Gilmore, 31, of Newark, N. J., driver of the truck was severely injured and his helper Leslie Collins, 33, also of Newark, suffered scalp wounds.

BIBLE AND CHEWING GUM BRING DIVORCE

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 17.—Because her husband, Simon, is "the Bible-reading man I ever saw," and because he chews gum to excess, Mrs. Mary Richter's divorce suit was on file today.

Simon "grabs" the Bible every morning before breakfast and reads it while she goes out selling magazines to make a living. Mrs. Richter complained.

BODE BANKRUPT

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Harvey M. Bode, of Pickaway-co., filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court here today listing debts at $15,556 and assets at $13,722.

County Cattle Feeders' Tour

Can grain be profitably marketed through beef cattle today, is a question frequently heard. Steer feeder demonstrations which have been conducted through the co-operation of a number of Pick-away-co cattle feeders and County Agent H. S. Lewis throughout the winter will reflect some light upon this subject.

On Wednesday, March 23 Pick-away-co cattle feeders and feeders from adjoining counties will attend the sixth annual cattle feeders' tour to study the results obtained in the feeder record work of this year. These records include approximately 1000 head of cattle, comprised of steer and heifer calves, yearlings and 2 year olds. The results obtained by the different feeders will be summarized and tabulated for distribution throughout the tour.

Does a silo pay? Should I feed cotton seed meal? How do costs of grains compare in finishing calves and yearlings? These and a number of other questions will be discussed during the days program.

The tour will assemble at the Farm Bureau Home, E. Main-st. Wednesday at 9:30 a. m.

The first stop will be made at the Hyde-Mace Farm, one mile south of New Holland, where 254 head of calves will be viewed.

The second stop will be made at John C. Stevenson and Sons farm, Jackson-twp, where 101 yearlings and 47 heifer calves will be viewed.

Dinner will be served by the Domestic Science Class of the Jackson-twp school and the afternoon program comprised of addresses by Dr. Carl W. Gay, chief of the animal husbandry department, Ohio State University, and Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the Animal Husbandry Department, Ohio Experiment Station, and a Meat Cutting Demonstration presented by Robert O. Roth of the Meats Department, Ohio State University, will be presented in the School Auditorium, at Fox.

Anyone interested in this program is welcome to attend and participate in the discussions.

'Taxi Dancer' Bride

Another instance of Cupid leaping social barriers was recently disclosed when the marriage of Allan P. Carlisle, son of Jay P. Carlisle, millionaire broker of New York, to Romaine Fleming (above), leaked out through young Carlisle's classmates at Harvard. Carlisle met Miss Fleming at a New York "taxi dance" hall, where she was a professional hostess. They were married last Christmas.

KREUGER'S FRIEND THOUGHT SUICIDE

LONDON, March 17.—A director of the Estonian match monopoly M. Margus, was found dead at Revel, Estonia today, apparently a suicide, according to Exchange telegraph dispatches from Helsingfors.

Margus, whose salary was understood to have been cut following the suicide of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king who controlled the industry, also lost heavily in the depreciation of his large holdings of Kreuger & Toll stock.

FISHERMEN SAVED

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 17.—Seventeen fishermen were back home today after their rescue from an ice floe on which they were marooned for several hours in Lake Erie.

Coast guard men made their way in row boats across a mile of ice-clogged water to rescue the men.

The 17 men were fishing through the ice near the shore when an enormous floe suddenly broke away and drifted off with them.

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Officials of the Columbus Art Gallery refused today to comment on reports of the resignation of Karl S. Bolander, director, when it was simultaneously reported that Bolander denied he has quit the position.

LEGISLATURE

mit them to become familiar with the provisions of the measures to be considered.

The governor said he had no intention of "edging in" on the deliberations of the legislators but he thought they would probably arrange for hearings and likely refer the bills to the present standing committee and senate taxation committees.

"Months ago," the governor's statement said, "it became apparent that unemployment and relief needs throughout the state of Ohio would become so great during the year 1932 that the resources, both public and private, available to meet this need, would be taxed to the utmost. I believed then, as I believe now, that the problem was a local one to be met by the various governmental sub-divisions. It was my hope that, by the cutting of governmental costs, by the exercise of most rigid economy of public and private funds for relief purposes and by the elimination of activities and expenses justified in normal times, the needs could be met by these sub-divisions. I have found the people of Ohio in most cases, willing to give of their own funds generously as the success of the various community funds in such a difficult time as this attests.

COULD HELP SELVES

"At the present time, I am convinced that the vast majority of the communities of our state could, by sacrifice and coordination of all efforts, meet their relief problems. However, in the large centers of population incontestable evidence exists that the means at their disposal are far below those necessary to meet the relief demands for the year. The state of Ohio has set an example in cutting expenses; many of the counties and cities have followed this example or are now doing so, but their efforts, supplemented by contributions to charitable relief funds, are insufficient.

"It is the duty of the state to assist these sub-divisions; the state of Ohio must not be charged with permitting any of its citizens to starve. I have, therefore, decided to call the General Assembly into special session on March 29, 1932, for the single purpose of enacting legislation which will assist the communities unable to meet their needs, in securing funds to meet this grave problem.

"I shall submit to the General Assembly a plan to raise the necessary funds by an excise tax on public utilities of Ohio, Homes, farms, and real estate can not bear additional burden, and it is my belief that the source of taxation proposed will be more equitable to the people of Ohio than any other now available."

Gandhi says the dominating fear of mankind is the loss of material possessions. He was referring to safety pins, of course.

MUCH COLOR TO BE FOUND IN STATE'S PRIMARY MAY 10

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Hee, hee, hee; but this Ohio primary election is going to be entertaining. From this angle on the sidelines, it looks like a certain new high in buffoonery and savageness.

One of the gubernatorial candidates admittedly aspires to vaudeville—just so it's clean vaudeville—and, in addition, William H. Atafia, R. Murray, the Okla. home governor, is to bring over his handle-bar mustache.

Due to the tenseness of the times, invective will ring through the halls at some of the meetings, and worried husbands will black-list some of the speakers to prevent embarrassment for their cloistered wives, and vice versa.

The divine right of candidates to lambast incumbents in lofty offices without fear of penalty will be exercised, and one of the candidates, former Senator Joseph France of Maryland, has promised to spare not even the President of the United States.

SEEKING SLOGAN

The same spirit evinced by France, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was found recently at Ohio State university when Prof. Gordon Hayes, would-be Democratic nominee for congressman-at-large, held a contest among students to help him pick a campaign slogan.

"Help Hayes Hand Hoover Hell" was one of the offerings. It finished a bad 96th.

The Rosses, Olin J. and Galen Starr, both of Columbus, must not be overlooked by anybody shopping for something new in Office-seekers.

St. Patrick's Day Observed

saying it was too small but St. Patrick insisted it was quite large enough to be comfortable. After a long contention, the serpent got in to prove its case; when St. Patrick slammed down the lid and threw the box into the sea. To complete this wonderful tale, the legend says the waves of the sea are made by the writhings of the serpent, and the noise of the sea is that of the serpent imploring to be released.

Truth is stranger than fiction. The Patrick of history is a more interesting character than the Patrick of fiction. For fourteen hundred years this young missionary and prophet has been recognized as the inspiring genius of a great people.

RETAINED BY PEOPLE

His writings and letters are the oldest documents connected with Christianity in Ireland. They have a ring of unmistakable sincerity and which show him to have been a man of unusual reverence and spiritual insight.

The Irish are a great people in story and in song, in history and in the annals of a long and heroic struggle for self-determination. There is no law against the wearing of the green anywhere on earth today. The Irish nation has practical autonomy although it does not have absolute independence. For that reason the sons of the Emerald Isle can still sing with a new meaning:

"I'll stick to the wearing of the green"

When the law can stop the blades of green, From growing as they grow, And when the leaves in summer-time, Their verdure dare not show, Then I will change the color, That I wear in my canteen, But 'till that day, Please God, I'll stick to wearing of the green."

3 OHIO CHILDREN TAKEN FROM RIVER

TIFFIN, O., March 17.—Three Tiffin children today owed their lives to firemen who rescued them from the Sandusky river after they broke through the ice. Eddie Miller, 12, Catherine Wahner, 9, and Paul Mahler, 6, were saved when firemen pushed ladders out to the children.

ATTORNEY SUICIDES

CINCINNATI, O., March 17.—Harry C. Kruse, 43, well known Cincinnati attorney, committed suicide in his down town office here today by discharging a shot gun into his abdomen, police said.

Recent illness and worry over finances were believed by authorities to have caused Kruse to take his life. He is survived by his widow.

NEGRO POET AND WHITE GIRL WED

CARMEL, Cal., March 17.—Determined that racial barriers shall never mar their happiness, Jean Toomer, negro poet, essayist and psychologist, and his white bride, Margery Latimer, widely known novelist, were honeymooning here today.

The couple, it was revealed, were married as the culmination of a strange romance that developed during an experiment in human behavior that involved eight "subjects" who lived for two months in a three room cottage at Portage, Wis., while their reactions were studied.

Ravens Fly Upside Down

A. Vedel Taining, a Danish observer, states that ravens flying upside down are not a rare sight in Iceland. He has seen many hundreds of these birds performing interesting evolutions in the air around favorite resting places, and at times they fly upside-down. This flight is not particularly connected with the courtship, though it is most often seen at the time of courtship, when air acrobatics are especially performed by the birds.

"Twins" in World of Letters

Not only does Reuben Brainin, of New York, approach George Bernard Shaw, English man of letters, in literary attainments, but he also bears a marked facial resemblance to the famous cynic. The two men are shown above. Shaw is at right. Brainin is the Hebrew dean of literature who will be honored by a testimonial reception in New York on the occasion of his 70th anniversary.

How to Escape

FLU and Grippe

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose; get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.

3 Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.

4 Try, particularly, to avoid catching cold. Colds lower your resistance to disease germs. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin; remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. And if you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this relieves the soreness, and it usually reduces the inflammation.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

RESUMPTION OF NAVIGATION ON LAKES TO PROVIDE WORK

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 17.—Resumption of navigation on the Great Lakes will provide employment for hundreds of railroad workers in northeastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania who are preparing to go back to work after a period of idleness.

Many men—engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, telegraph operators, shop and track men and clerks—will be needed to handle the usual heavier traffic during the summer. Much of this added traffic will come from the mining districts.

Millions of tons of iron ore, coal, stone and grain each year are moved to or from the lake ports through the Mahoning Valley on the Erie, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, and the New York Central railroads.

MOVE IRON ORE
Most of the iron ore moved from the Minnesota iron ranges to the lower Lake Erie points is transported to the railroads for shipment to the Youngstown and Pittsburgh steel districts of the Ohio Valley steel furnaces.

Heavy grain tonnage also moves from the head of the lakes to the Erie ports for rail shipment to the East or ocean ports for export.

Much coal moves from Pennsylvania and West Virginia coal regions via the railroads to the lake ports for shipment in steamers up the Great Lakes.

Nine lake ports get a bulk of the iron ore and coal shipments, both outgoing and incoming. The New York Central has its ore and coal docks at Ashtabula Harbor, while the Pennsylvania has its docks at Ashtabula Harbor and Erie. The Erie transfers at Cleveland and the Baltimore & Ohio at Fairport Harbor, near Painesville.

Heavy tonnage of ore and coal also are transferred at Conneaut, Lorain, Sandusky, Huron and Toledo.

But while the railroad officials expect many men to go back to work as a result of the opening of the navigation season they are not overly optimistic, inasmuch as the movements of coal and ore probably will be considerably lighter than usual this year.

"Blast furnaces which have large coal and iron storage yards would be near the bottom of their piles at this time in normal year," one of the railroad traffic men stated. "Their storage piles would be rebuilt for the winter, and current supplies would be coming in during the navigation season."

"But this winter all blast furnaces were so far below normal that the furnaces haven't made such large holes in their reserves. This means less ore and coal will have to be moved, even should business suddenly become good this summer."

Unsatisfactory Assets

Frozen assets consist of promissory notes and other evidence of indebtedness, which, although they are good, cannot be collected immediately. For example, a bank has lent a man money on a note for a year. The note is perfectly good, but business is bad for the bank, many people take their money out, and a lack of funds develops. The note and many like it cannot be turned into cash for some months because they are not due. They are therefore called "frozen."

Recipes

That's exactly what we mean—"greater value for your dollar." We're speaking of flour—which is the basis for that veritable staff of life, "bread." The best grade of fine white flour make bread of excellent quality, but such bread is not as nutritious as that made from whole wheat flour.

The mineral content of whole wheat flour is higher; it contains more of the nutritive elements; it adds bulk to the diet and assists in carrying on the normal functions of the digestive tract.

Whole wheat bread or muffins make a pleasing variety for any table. We are not confined to bread alone in the use of this very nutritive flour. Listed below are some whole wheat recipes which we have used with great success.

WHOLE WHEAT PANCAKES

- 1 C. flour.
 - 3 t. baking powder.
 - 1-2 t. salt.
 - 3 T. sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1 C. milk
 - 1 T. melted butter
- Mix and sift dry ingredients; beat egg, add milk, and pour slowly on first mixture. Beat thoroughly and add butter. Begin cooking cakes at once or more baking powder will be required.

WHEAT HAMBURG

- 1 lb. Hamburg.
- 1 C. cracked wheat cereal.
- 1-2 C. sweet milk.
- 1 small onion.

(if desired)
1-4 C. shortening mazola or bacon drippings.

1 egg (not necessary)
1 t. salt.
Procedure: (1) Mix hamburger, egg, salt together. (2) Stir in wheat cereal, (3) add milk, 1 cup. (4) Stir in melted shortening. (5) Mixture should be as the consistency of muffin dough. Spread slices of bread with this mixture having mixture about 1-4 inch thick. Brown in broiling oven 10 to 12 minutes.

WHOLE WHEAT PUFFS

- 1-2 C. whole wheat flour.
- 2 T. sugar.
- 1 t. salt.
- 1 C. milk.
- 1 egg.
- 1 T. fat.

Sift the flour, sugar and salt together and add the milk and the egg yolk, which should be well beaten. Melt the fat and stir it in to the batter. Beat the egg white stiff, and fold it in carefully. Heat well-greased gem tins, fill them level full with the mixture, and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees).

WHOLE WHEAT WAFFLES

- 1 egg
- 3-4 C. milk.
- 1 T. melted butter.
- 1-2 t. salt.
- 1 C. whole wheat flour.
- 2 t. baking powder.

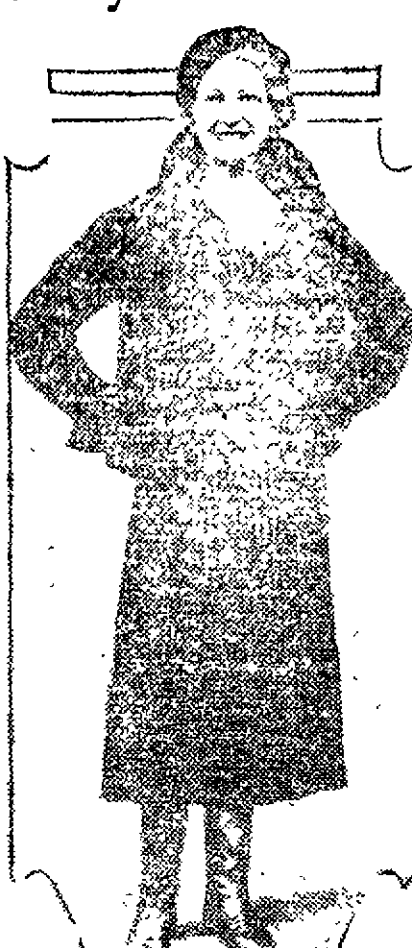

Beat egg until very light. Add milk, flour, sifted with baking powder, salt, then add butter. Drop by spoonful on hot well greased Waffle Iron. Makes four waffles.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

THE STATE TEACHERS' RETIREMENT SYSTEM

To the Editor of The Herald.

Dear Editor:
There has been much said pro and con relative to the teachers' pension. Without entering into a lengthy discussion of this subject I affirm that it is operating just as a substantial increase of salary would, as an inducement to make the teaching profession a life-work. When the legislature enacted that law it performed an act which means more to the welfare of the state than any member of that distinguished body was aware of at the time.

The enactment of said law is exerting an influence which is putting our public schools on a higher plane, since teachers who have taught long enough to know HOW to teach, are available.

It affords the writer who has taught thirty-six years in the public schools of our commonwealth, much pleasure as he looks back upon a life of real service which was rendered especially to the youth.

The Retirement System has made it possible for teachers to receive a check each month not as a "pension check" but a "dividend check" on the stock which they have earned in the material prosperity and the security of the state which they have served long and faithfully.

Teaching is the GREATEST profession since it serves youth during the adolescent period in which character is molded.

"EDUCATION is a companion which no misfortune can depress. No crime destroy, no enemy can alienate."

At home it is a friend, abroad an introduction. In solitude a solace, and in society an ornament."

Sincerely,
SAMUEL LINDSEY

EPIDEMIC OF BANK FAILURES IN OHIO VALLEY IS AT END

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—The epidemic of bank failures is at an end and their business as well as that of a general nature in four states, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana, bordering on the Ohio Valley, is in an improved state.

With that assurance, Ohio Valley shippers today assumed an optimistic outlook on business conditions for the second quarter of 1932. This attitude was assumed despite the fact that figures submitted by 202 bankers in this section showed that business conditions for the first quarter of this year were worse than in the corresponding period in 1931.

ENCOURAGEMENT SEEN

Encouragement, however, is reflected in the present day trend. Both agriculture and industry experienced better business during first quarter of this year than in the last of 1931. Moreover, confidence has been restored by the reconstruction Finance corporation and Steagall-Glass bill, both measures destined to liquidate the frozen assets of banking institutions.

In the opinion of the bankers, the greatest difficulty has resulted from the withdrawal and hoarding of money. The anti-hoarding campaign and the sale of "baby bonds" are the two weapons that the federal government is relying upon to bring money back into circulation.

The greatest set-back the Ohio Valley has received is from the mining industry. At present coal operations are virtually at a standstill in southern Ohio as the result of a strike against wage reductions. An unfavorable situation was reported in Kentucky but in certain sections, conditions are regarded as fair. In West Virginia, mines are working only two days a week, but suffering has been alleviated by a heavy construction program.

PRICES LOW

Prices for farm products in Ohio are unfavorable and in many instances below the cost of production. However, crop prospects are generally good so if any rise in prices occurs, farmers will be in a fairly comfortable state.

Kentucky crops in general are good but farmers, especially those who produce tobacco, have a pessimistic outlook mostly because of low prices. Similar conditions prevail in West Virginia where crops are plentiful but no immediate markets.

Ohio leads the field in the decline of unemployment. Hundreds of idle men in recent weeks have been provided work on public roads or through local committees in the state-wide drive to create jobs. In Kentucky, manufacturing plants are operating about 64 per cent of the time while construction work in the Kanawha valley in West Virginia has relieved the unemployment situation considerably.

Despite these conditions, which are far from satisfactory, a favorable trend swept over the entire region. Estimated car loadings from the second quarter, although below those of 1931, surpasses those for the first three months of 1932. In Kentucky retail trade is better than during the latter part of 1931, which is an indication that the turn has come, in the opinion of the bankers.

County Cattle Feeders' Tour

Can grain be profitably marketed through beef cattle today, is a question frequently heard. Steer feeder demonstrations which have been conducted through the cooperation of a number of Pickaway-co cattle feeders and County Agent H. S. Lewis throughout the winter will reflect some light upon this subject.

On Wednesday, March 23 Pickaway-co cattle feeders and feeders from adjoining counties will attend the sixth annual cattle feeders' tour to study the results obtained in the feeder record work of this year. These records include approximately 1000 head of cattle, comprised of steer and heifer calves, yearlings and 2 year olds. The results obtained by the different feeders will be summarized and tabulated for distribution throughout the tour.

Does a silo pay? Should I feed cotton seed meal? How do costs of grains compare in finishing calves and yearlings? These and a number of other questions will be discussed during the days program.

The tour will assemble at the Farm Bureau Home, E. Main-st., Wednesday at 9:30 a. m.

The first stop will be made at the Hyde-Mace Farm, one mile south of New Holland, where 254 head of calves will be viewed.

The second stop will be made at John C. Stevenson and Sons farm, Jackson-twp., where 101 yearlings and 47 heifer calves will be viewed.

Dinner will be served by the Domestic Science Class of the Jackson-twp school and the afternoon program comprised of addresses by Dr. Carl W. Gay, chief of the animal husbandry department, Ohio State University, and Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the animal husbandry department, Ohio Experiment Station, and a Meat Cutting Demonstration presented by Robert O. Roth of the Meats Department, Ohio State University, will be presented in the School Auditorium, at Fox.

Anyone interested in this program is welcome to attend and participate in the discussions.

unit them to become familiar with the provisions of the measures to be considered.

The governor said he had no intention of "edging in" on the deliberations of the legislators but he thought they would probably arrange for hearings and likely refer the bills to the present standing houses and senate taxation committees.

"Months ago," the governor's statement said, "it became apparent that unemployment and relief needs throughout the state of Ohio would become so great during the year 1932 that the resources, both public and private, available to meet this need, would be taxed to the utmost. I believed then, as I believe now, that the problem was a local one to be met by the various governmental subdivisions. It was my hope that by the cutting of governmental costs, by the exercise of most rigid economy of public and private funds for relief purposes and by the elimination of activities and expenses justified in normal times, the needs could be met by these sub-divisions. I have found the people of Ohio in most cases, willing to give of their own funds generously as the success of the various community funds in such a difficult time as this attests.

COULD HELP SELVES

"At the present time, I am convinced that the vast majority of the communities of our state could, by sacrifice and coordination of all efforts, meet their relief problems. However, in the large centers of population incontestable evidence exists that the means at their disposal are far below those necessary to meet the relief demands for the year. The state of Ohio has set an example in cutting expenses; many of the counties and cities have followed this example or are now doing so, but their efforts, supplemented by contributions to charitable relief funds, are insufficient.

"It is the duty of the state to assist these sub-divisions; the state of Ohio must not be charged with permitting any of its citizens to starve. I have, therefore, decided to call the General Assembly into special session on March 29, 1932, for the single purpose of enacting legislation which will assist the communities unable to meet their needs, in securing funds to meet this grave problem.

"I shall submit to the General Assembly a plan to raise the necessary funds by an excise tax on public utilities of Ohio. Homes, farms, and real estate can not bear additional burden, and it is my belief that the source of taxation proposed will be more equitable to the people of Ohio than any other now available."

Gandhi says the dominating fear of mankind is the loss of material possessions. He was referring to safety pins, of course.

MUCH COLOR TO BE FOUND IN STATE'S PRIMARY MAY 10

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Hee, hee, hee, but this Ohio primary election is going to be entertaining. From this angle on the sidelines, it looks like a certain new high in buffoonery and savagery.

One of the gubernatorial candidates admittedly aspires to vaudeville—just so it's clean vaudeville—and, in addition, William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, the Oklahoma governor, is to bring over his handle-bar mustache.

Due to the tenseness of the times, invective will ring through the halls at some of the meetings, and worried husbands will blacklist some of the speakers to prevent embarrassment for their cloistered wives, and vice versa.

The divine right of candidates to lambast incumbents in lofty offices without fear of penalty will be exercised, and one of the candidates, Former Senator Joseph France of Maryland, has promised to spare not even the President of the United States.

SEEKING SLOGAN

The same spirit evinced by France, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was found recently at Ohio State university when Prof. Gordon Hayes, would-be Democratic nominee for congressman-at-large, held a contest among students to help him pick a campaign slogan.

"Help Hayes Hand Hoover Hell" was one of the offerings. It finished a bad 96th.

The Rosses, Olin J. and Galen Starr, both of Columbus, must not be overlooked by anybody shopping for something new in Office-seekers.

Galen Starr Ross, former lecturer, advertising salesman and personnel expert, is already ahead of the rest of the field in the Harsh Language Derby by at least 1500 damns. This is exclusive of tinker's damns, which also come easily to him.

As soon as he becomes governor, Ohio can be assured the chief executive's salary will be cut 40 percent.

Ross, who is aiming at the Democratic gubernatorial nomination started his campaign by charging 25 cents admission. In a very exclusive announcement to the writer, however, he revealed that he will abandon this practice.

Henceforth he will finance his electioneering by the sale of lie-proof age puzzles which he has invented. They will be sold at his meetings, to which the public will be admitted without charge.

Old Voltaire's ghost will travel with Olin J. Ross, who again is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. "One of his eloquent backers here said, 'Ross is the quintessence of tolerance' to all of which Ross agrees," a statement from his office says. Olin J. Ross frequently quotes the celebrated Frenchman's views on tolerance.

COXEY CONFUSES

The electorate is in peril of becoming confused in the campaign of "General" Jacob S. Coxey Sr., mayor of Massillon. He is a candidate for both the presidency and the U. S. Senate.

Coxey recently explained that his campaigns help publicize Massillon. He said he worked for Jimmy Walker and New York.

James C. Beatty, East Liverpool pottery jobber who was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination three times, is now going to have a fling at it from the Republican side. He broke with the Democratic party after an unsuccessful mayoralty campaign.

Beatty will make a bid for the Ohio "beverage." He advocates a state law permitting the sale of beer with a tax of five cents a glass, and has strong words for the prohibitionists.

It's going to be a dogfied campaign. Yeah, boy!

Any member of the family of Robert Musser, N. Court-st., is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

St. Patrick's Day Observed

saying it was too small but St. Patrick insisted it was quite large enough to be comfortable. After a long contention, the serpent got in to prove its case; when St. Patrick slammed down the lid and threw the box into the sea. To complete this wonderful tale, the legend says the waves of the sea are made by the writhings of the serpent, and the noise of the sea is that of the serpent imploring to be released.

Truth is stranger than fiction. The Patrick of history is a more interesting character than the Patrick of fiction. For fourteen hundred years this young missionary and prophet has been recognized as the inspiring genius of a great people.

His writings and letters are the oldest documents connected with Christianity in Ireland. They have a ring of unmistakable sincerity and which show him to have been a man of unusual reverence and spiritual insight.

The Irish are a great people in story and in song, in history and in the annals of a long and heroic struggle for self-determination. There is no law against the wearing of the green anywhere on earth today. The Irish nation has practical autonomy although it does not have absolute independence. For that reason the sons of the Emerald Isle can still sing with a new meaning:

"I'll stick to the wearing of the green. When the law can stop the blades of green, From growing as they grow, And when the leaves in summer-time,

Their verdure dare not show, Then I will change the color That I wear in my canteen. But till that day, Please God, I'll stick to wearing of the green."

3 OHIO CHILDREN TAKEN FROM RIVER

TIFFIN, O., March 17.—Three Tiffin children today owed their lives to firemen who rescued them from the Sandusky river after they broke through the ice. Eddie Miller, 12; Catherine Wahner, 9, and Paul Mahler, 6, were saved when firemen pushed ladders out to the children.

ATTORNEY SUICIDES

CINCINNATI, O., March 17.—Harry C. Kruse, 43, well known Cincinnati attorney, committed suicide in his down town office here today by discharging a shot gun into his abdomen, police said.

Recent illness and worry over finances were believed by authorities to have caused Kruse to take his life. He is survived by his widow.

'Taxi Dancer' Bride

Another instance of Cupid leaping social barriers was recently disclosed when the marriage of Allan P. Carlisle, son of Jay P. Carlisle, millionaire broker of New York, to Romaine Fleming (above), leaked out through young Carlisle's classmates at Harvard. Carlisle met Miss Fleming at a New York "taxi dancer" hall, where she was a professional hostess. They were married last Christmas.

KREUGER'S FRIEND THOUGHT SUICIDE

LONDON, March 17.—A director of the Estonian match monopoly M. Margus, was found dead at Reval, Estonia today, apparently a suicide according to Exchange telegraph dispatches from Helsinki.

Margus, whose salary was understood to have been cut following the suicide of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king who controlled the industry, also lost heavily in the depreciation of his large holdings of Kreuger & Toll stock.

FISHERMEN SAVED

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 17.—Seventeen fishermen were back home today after their rescue from an ice floe on which they were marooned for several hours in Lake Erie.

Coast guard men made their way in row boats across a mile of ice-clogged water to rescue the men.

The 17 men were fishing through the ice near the shore when an enormous floe suddenly broke away and drifted off with them.

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—Officials of the Columbus Art Gallery refused today to comment on reports of the resignation of Karl S. Bolander, director, when it was simultaneously reported that Bolander denied he has quit the position.

NEGRO POET AND WHITE GIRL WED

CARMEL, Cal., March 17.—Determined that racial barriers shall never mar their happiness, Jean Toomer, negro poet, essayist and psychologist, and his white bride, Margery Latimer, widely known novelist, were honeymooning here today.

The couple, it was revealed, were married as the culmination of a strange romance that developed during an experiment in human behavior that involved eight "subjects" who lived for two months in a three room cottage at Portage, Wis., while their reactions were studied.

Success

YOUNG fellows disposed to be gloomy about their own futures and who tell themselves that times have changed until success depends upon wealth and pull were given a much needed tonic by the promotion of William A. Irvin to the presidency of the United States Steel Corporation. Let them read the story of his life and take new hope. Times have not changed, although people have.

Irvin wasn't born with a silver spoon in his mouth. His success was not built upon family connections, wealth or pull. What he has he worked for.

The new president of U. S. Steel got his start in the '80s as a telegrapher. He was 15 years old when he got his first job. His first promotion was to shipping clerk, an occupation which like that of telegrapher has prepared a number of famous Americans for later successes. From there, following the beaten path of opportunity as it is pretty clearly marked in our country, this young man progressed from one post to another until one of the largest corporations in the world placed its affairs in his hands during one of the most trying periods of its history.

Nor is the career of William A. Irvin unparalleled in modern times. There is Melvin A. Taylor, president of one of the country's largest banks, possible Democratic nominee for president and one of the world's leading financiers, who was born in a Kentucky mountaineer's shack.

Horatio Alger stories are being lived in every community all the time, but not by young men and women who think opportunity has lost the knack of knocking at doors.

Prophet

THE essential law does not depend upon traditions and precedents. It is a living fact and force, needing constantly to be applied anew to the needs of men. A great jurist may be called a prophet because the ancient verities of right and justice are discovered in his decisions and judgments, applied to present problems and written or spoken in the living language of today.

So when Solicitor General Thacher spoke of former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court, he was not merely paying a pretty compliment to an old man, who had rendered long and courageous public service. It was an accurate description.

Looking upon the great liberal justice as a prophet also recognizes the supreme function of the law, which is to determine the truth and embody it for the service of civilization.

The ancient prophets were masters of phrase and sentence, able to turn the abstract truth into glowing and immortal words. This attribute of the prophets Justice Holmes possesses also in high degree. Examine his reply to the congratulations of the bar association in the occasion of his ninety-first birthday anniversary.

Life seems to me like a Japanese picture, which our imagination does not allow to end with the margin. We aim at the infinite, and when our arrow falls to earth, it is in flames.

Are not these the thoughts of a prophet?

Eclipse

THE United States will be given the opportunity this year of witnessing that most spectacular and awe-inspiring of astral phenomena, the total eclipse of the sun. It will occur on August 31 and will be the last visible in the United States for 90 years.

Astronomers have followed total eclipses of the sun into far countries and will continue to do so, but one close at hand inspires them to special effort for observing and recording phenomena.

The path of the eclipse will cross the northeastern part of the United States and Canada. At Conway, N. H., will be erected an 85 foot camera to take large scale photographs of the sun's corona. There will also be small cameras and motion picture outfits to record the spectacle and aid astronomers in their studies. The celeostat, and arrangement of clock-driven mirrors, will be part of the elaborate recording and observing equipment in use at Conway.

These solar eclipses have taken on a quite different aspect since the day of the oracles, astrologers and universal astronomical ignorance. Except among a few savage tribes they no longer spell the end of the world or strike fear into the hearts of men. The least lettered of Americans will be calm, scientifically interested spectators or will look upon it merely as a nature's headliner.

The discovery that halibut liver oil is a substitute for cod liver oil may be the fruit of long research, but it sounds like morbid curiosity.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER"

by TOM GILL

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE CO., INC. — DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

The Mexican peons, grown tired of Paco Morales' oppression, await the word from "El Coyote," their masked protector, to overthrow him. Morales has enlisted the aid of the U. S. Cavalry to capture the notorious bandit. Ted Radcliffe, a young American, learns that Morales was responsible for his late father's ruin. Bob Harkness, Ted's friend, urges him not to make an enemy of Morales, as he has other plans. Ted is enamored of Morales' beautiful niece, Adela. At a fiesta, Adela, sensing the hatred of Jito, Morales' ward, for Ted, exacts a promise from Ted never to fight with him. Morales informs Bob that his men will join in the search for "El Coyote" and that Jito has dedicated himself to kill the bandit. Adela tells Ted he must not let his lack of wealth keep him from love. Bob receives a note and leaves the merry-making. Shortly after, news is received that Jito's vaqueros are raiding the village. Adela goes to the village with Ted and Morales, and lashes a vaquero insulting a girl. She calls "El Coyote's" vengeance upon Jito. Just as Jito orders the flogging of a poor farmer, "El Coyote" appears. His men disarm the vaqueros and inform Morales his rule is over. Back at the hacienda, Jito says he will prevent Adela from riding with Ted the next day. A messenger arrives with the news that one of Jito's men has been killed by Anton, an Indian, whom they have captured.

CHAPTER XXIV

He turned contemptuously from the Mexican and spoke now to Morales. "We are a free people, and tonight there came among us many horsemen, mad with drink. They came with anger in their eyes when they should have brought friendship. They battered down my lodges, they stampered my horses, they threatened my young men, and one of them I had to kill. I take no sorrow for that, but unless these bonds are taken from my hands, you, Paco Morales, will take great sorrow, for we Yaqui of the mountains are many and our young men have not forgotten other days. It might be easier to urge them to battle than to hold them back." He stopped speaking.

Morales, without a word, walked up to the man and cut the bonds at his wrists. "My men will trouble you no more," he said slowly. "Go in peace."

Not until the moccasins of the Yaqui had shuffled out through the patio did anyone speak; then with a smile that still held a kind of sinister amusement Morales glanced at Jito. "One more loyal follower like you, Jito mio, and I shall be a ruined man. Once the Yaqui joins with this Coyote bandit, your vaqueros will have little time for merriment." A sudden tremor of anger seized him. "Take, for the love of God, your hand forever out of my sight." He rose and bowed to Don Bob.

"Never," said the old Spaniard, "have guests of mine suffered such disturbance. You must forgive one who grows too old to remember the demands of hospitality. Now I am very tired. Good night, señors. As for you, Jito, come to my room a moment. There are a few things that must be said."

His gaunt shoulders seemed more bowed as he left the room. Jito followed after a surly nod at the two Americans.

instance. He gave me something to think about." And for a space of many minutes Don Bob smoked, his eyes fixed in thought. At last he shook his head.

"Morales must be worried. It is as if he, too, felt the breaking up of things. This kingdom of fear that he has built can't go on always. There are mutterings. That Yaqui bluffed his way to freedom, Morales didn't dare hold him. The peons themselves aren't taking things lying down as they once did. And behind all this is the shadow of El Coyote. No, I think Señor Morales has many things to think of this night. Thoughts that will be unwelcome bedfellows for the Spaniard."

But Ted was gazing out toward the desert, and a little smile was playing about his mouth. When he looked up it was obvious he hadn't heard a word of Don Bob's soliloquy, for he murmured: "You should have seen her. She was magnificent."

"My son," answered Don Bob sorrowfully, "when they reach your stage, hope, if any, lies in a good night's rest."

And slipping his arm through Ted's he led him up the stairs.

Twice in the night Ted awoke to hear rain pattering on the tile roof, but the sunrise was cloudless. Adela waited for him in the patio, and in her face lay no sign of the night's happening, but as they passed down the walk to where the horses stood she looked silently up toward the mesa. High up on its edge, touched with the sun's first rays, glittered the Cross of the Conquerors. Lips slightly parted, she gazed up in a kind of silent communion—then turned toward the man.

"The legend of the Cross may yet be answered," she said slowly, "and the peon find his liberator. I thought so for a moment last night."

She mounted and led the way down the long drive.

"The first morning of creation must have been like this," Ted told her, as they rode through the gate and out toward the desert. "Everything washed and dusted. Those mountains look as if they were only a few miles away."

"They're about thirty. We're going half-way to them, to the Spring of the Saints. There we'll try to eat all the food in our saddlebags and come back through the sunset. A whole day devoted to your lordship. I'm being very nice to you, Ted Radcliffe, for no reason at all."

"You're being quite perfect to me. I'm wondering if it isn't because you pity me for—what's happened," he said.

Leaning forward she fondled the soft ears of her horse.

"I've not felt the least twinge of pity. Why should I, when the future is all ahead of you and you have a mind and a body to do what you want? Besides, you have something I never had—the memory of a father. Mine died when I was too young to remember—I only know he was big and handsome and had a wild Latin temper. And I know he loved my mother very greatly. So don't give me credit for too much charity. These people of mine, they have need of all the charity I possess."

"I love the way you call them your people."

"They are my people. Don't forget my mother had Mexican blood in her veins as well as Irish, and she loved this country and these people just as I do. She taught me their legends and their songs. So I am a creature of this desert country. After a long moment she added, "I wish I could make it a country of happiness instead of tears."

"You mean—"

"What you saw last night. That sort of thing. There is a curse of cruelty on the lords of this land. They love cruelty for its own sake. Even my uncle. With me and Jito he is the gentlest of men. I love him. But to him these people in Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IN the writings of William Thomas Green Morton, the discoverer of anesthesia, is found this:

"I saturated my handkerchief with ether and inhaled from it, looked at my watch and soon lost consciousness. As I recovered I felt a numbness in my limbs and I would have given the world for someone to come and arouse me. I thought for a minute that I would die in that state and the world only pity my ridiculous folly. Gradually I regained power over my limbs and found that I had been insensible between seven and eight minutes."

Thus wrote the young medical student about his early experiences with anesthesia. It is now more than eighty-five years since this experiment was conducted. Since then, advances have been made in anesthesia far beyond the expectations and hopes of young Morton.

It is difficult for one living in this age to realize the conditions that existed before the discovery of anesthesia, when an operation was an ordeal that few could endure. At that time the operating room was correctly referred to as a "Chamber of horrors," and it was necessary for attendants to hold the patient on the operating table.

Now the most difficult and prolonged operation can be performed without pain. Surgery has been perfected by the aid of proper anesthesia, and today saves thousands of lives which otherwise would be lost.

Since Morton's great discovery, other forms of anesthetic have been developed. These are ether, ethylene, chloroform, nitrous oxide and oxygen. The gases are inhaled and produce a state of unconsciousness.

In local anesthesia a drug such as novocaine is injected into the area to be operated on. Of course this means of producing anesthesia can be used only in a limited class of cases. This method is most often used by dentists.

Within recent years tremendous interest has been aroused in a new method of preventing operative pain, called "spinal anesthesia." In this method anesthesia is produced by the injection of a local anesthetic, like novocaine, into the spinal fluid. In this form of anesthesia the patient is awake during the operation, but feels no pain.

I can well understand why surgery, and the mere thought of an operation, was dreaded before the discovery of anesthesia, which has abolished the pain and unnecessary torture of surgery.

May I testify to several personal experiences? Please believe me when I say that it is nothing to be dreaded. It is amazing how quickly one drops into unconsciousness, and the sleep that follows is so prolonged that there remains no memory of the experience.

Answers to Health Queries

V. M. Q.—How much should a girl of 16, 5 ft. 4½ inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 120 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of your age and height as determined by examination of a number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

R. J. S. Q.—Is it harmful to reduce by taking—

A.—Not advisable. You should eat very sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Get regular systematic exercise. A gradual reduction in the amount of food consumed, with the regular exercise will work wonders in most cases.

The Daily Horoscope

Thursday, March 17, 1932

The domestic side of life appears to be emphasized according to the signs for today. The feelings and emotions are seen to be most active and the thoughts would tend to revolve around the home and family.

The forenoon seems to be critical for those who can not keep their feelings in hand. Family affairs had best be discussed thoughtfully and no rash decisions made.

In the afternoon there is likely to be difficulty and danger for those who are imulsive. Discord may readily develop unless effort is made to prevent friction. Petty irritations are apt to lead to considerable disturbance, and it is best for everyone to stick closely to the task in front of them and refuse to be annoyed.

The evening brings better indications and the possibility of some real benefits to those who have business to attend. This is a time to seek the favor of those in authority and cultivate the good will of influential people. Social gatherings should run smoothly and everyone enjoy a pleasant evening.

Children whose birthdays is today (any year) are likely to be moody in disposition and inclined to be changeable, all of this being brought about by their very strong development in caution, as well as their not being sufficiently credulous. Their perceptive faculties are well developed, and they seem to notice every detail. They become efficient in money matters at an early age.

After school days they are found to be interested in mechanical occupations and mathematics.

The girls have good artistic taste and judgement.

RESUMPTION OF NAVIGATION ON LAKES TO PROVIDE WORK

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 17—Resumption of navigation on the Great Lakes will provide employment for hundreds of railroad workers in northeastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania who are preparing to go back to work after a period of idleness.

Many men—engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, telegraph operators, shop and track men and clerks—will be needed to handle the usual heavier traffic during the summer. Much of this added traffic will come from the mining districts.

Millions of tons of iron ore, coal, stone and grain each year are moved to or from the lake ports through the Mahoning Valley on the Erie, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, and the New York Central railroads.

MOVE IRON ORE
Most of the iron ore moved from the Minnesota iron ranges to the lower Lake Erie points its transshipment to the railroads for shipment to the Youngstown and Pittsburgh steel districts of the Ohio Valley steel furnaces.

Heavy grain tonnage also move from the head of the lakes to the Erie ports for rail shipment to the East or ocean ports for export.

Much coal moves from Pennsylvania and West Virginia coal regions via the railroads to the lake ports for shipment in steamers up the Great Lakes.

Nine lake ports get a bulk of the iron ore and coal shipments, both outgoing and incoming. The New York Central has its ore and coal docks at Ashtabula Harbor, while the Pennsylvania has its docks at Ashtabula Harbor and Erie. The Erie transfers at Cleveland and the Baltimore & Ohio at Fairport Harbor, near Painesville.

Heavy tonnage of ore and coal also are transferred at Conneaut, Lorain, Sandusky, Huron and Toledo.

But while the railroad officials expect many men to go back to work as a result of the opening of the navigation season they are not overly optimistic, inasmuch as the movements of coal and ore probably will be considerably lighter than usual this year.

"Blast furnaces which have large coal and iron storage yards would be near the bottom of their piles at this time in normal year," one of the railroad traffic men stated. "Their storage piles would be rebuilt for the winter, and current supplies would be coming in during the navigation season."

"But this winter all blast furnaces were so far below normal that the furnaces haven't made such large holes in their reserves. This means less ore and coal will have to be moved, even should business suddenly become good this summer."

Unsatisfactory Assets

Frozen assets consist of promissory notes and other evidence of indebtedness, which, although they are good, cannot be collected immediately. For example, a bank has lent a man money on a note for a year. The note is perfectly good, but business is bad for the bank, many people take their money out, and a lack of funds develops. The note and many like it cannot be turned into cash for some months because they are not due. They are therefore called "frozen."

Recipes

That's exactly what we mean— "greater value for your dollar."

We're speaking of flour—which is the basis for that versatile, staff of life, "bread." The best grade of fine white flour make bread of excellent quality, but such bread is not as nutritious as that made from whole wheat flour.

The mineral content of whole wheat flour is higher; it contains more of the nutritive elements; it adds bulk to the diet and assists in carrying on the normal functions of the digestive tract.

Whole wheat bread or muffins make a pleasing variety for any table. We are not confined to bread alone in the use of this very nutritive flour. Listed below are some whole wheat recipes which we have used with great success.

WHOLE WHEAT PANCAKES

- 1-2 C. whole wheat flour.
- 1 C. flour.
- 3 t. baking powder.
- 1-2 t. salt.
- 3 T. sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 C. milk
- 1 T. melted butter

Mix and sift dry ingredients; beat egg, add milk, and pour slowly on first mixture. Beat thoroughly and add butter. Begin cooking cakes at once or more baking powder will be required.

WHEAT HAMBURG

- 1 lb. Hamburg.
- 1 C. cracked wheat cereal.
- 1-2 C. sweet milk.
- 1 small onion.

(if desired)
1-4 C. shortening mazzola or bacon drippings.

- 1 egg (not necessary).

Procedure: (1) Mix hamburger, egg, salt together. (2) Stir in wheat cereal. (3) Add milk, 1 cup. (4) Stir in melted shortening. (5) Mixture should be as the consistency of muffin dough. Spread slices of bread with this mixture having mixture about 1-4 inch thick. Brown in broiling oven 10 to 12 minutes.

WHOLE WHEAT PUFFS

- 1-2 C. whole wheat flour.
- 2 T. sugar.
- 1 t. salt.
- 1 C. milk.
- 1 egg.
- 1 T. fat.

Sift the flour, sugar and salt together and add the milk and the egg yolk, which should be well beaten. Melt the fat and stir it into the batter. Beat the egg white stiff, and fold it in carefully. Heat well-greased gem tins, fill them level full with the mixture, and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes.

WHOLE WHEAT WAFFLES

- 1 egg
- 3-4 C. milk.
- 1 T. melted butter.
- 1-2 t. salt.
- 1 C. whole wheat flour.
- 2 t. baking powder.

Beat egg until very light. Add milk, flour sifted with baking powder, salt, then add butter. Drop by spoonful on hot well greased Waffle Iron. Makes four waffles.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

THE STATE TEACHERS RETIREMENT SYSTEM

To the Editor of The Herald.

Dear Editor:
There has been much said pro and con relative to the teachers' pension. Without entering into a lengthy discussion of this subject I affirm that it is operating just as a substantial increase of salary would, as an inducement to make the teaching profession a life-work. When the legislature enacted that law it performed an act which means more to the welfare of the state than any member of that distinguished body was aware of in 1907.

The enactment of said law is exerting an influence which is putting our public schools on a higher plane, since teachers who have taught long enough to know HOW to teach, are available.

It affords the writer who has taught thirty-six years in the public schools of our commonwealth, much pleasure as he looks back upon a life of real service which was rendered especially to the youth.

The Retirement System has made it possible for teachers to receive a check each month not as a "pension check" but a "dividend check" on the stock which they have earned in the material prosperity and the security of the state which they have served long and faithfully.

Teaching is the GREATEST profession since it serves youth during the adolescent period in which character is molded.

"EDUCATION is a companion which no misfortune can depress. No crime destroy, no enemy can alienate."

At home it is a friend, abroad an introduction. In solitude a solace, and in society an ornament."

Sincerely,
SAMUEL LINDSEY

EPIDEMIC OF BANK FAILURES IN OHIO VALLEY IS AT END

COLUMBUS, O., March 17—The epidemic of bank failures is at an end and their business as well as that of a general nature in four states, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Indiana, bordering on the Ohio Valley, is in an improved state.

With that assurance, Ohio Valley shippers today assumed an optimistic outlook on business conditions for the second quarter of 1932. This attitude was assumed despite the fact that figures submitted by 202 bankers in this section showed that business conditions for the first quarter of this year were worse than in the corresponding period in 1931.

ENCOURAGEMENT SEEN

Encouragement, however, is reflected in the present day trend. Both agriculture and industry experienced better business during the first quarter of this year than in the last of 1931. Moreover, confidence has been restored by the reconstruction Finance corporation and Steagall-Glass bill, both measures destined to liquidate the frozen assets of banking institutions.

In the opinion of the bankers, the greatest difficulty has resulted from the withdrawal and hoarding of money. The anti-hoarding campaign and the sale of "baby bonds" are the two weapons that the federal government is relying upon to bring money back into circulation.

The greatest set-back the Ohio Valley has received is from the mining industry. At present coal operations are virtually at a standstill in southern Ohio as the result of a strike against wage reductions. An unfavorable situation was reported in Kentucky but in certain sections, conditions are regarded as fair. In West Virginia, mines are working only two days a week, but suffering has been alleviated by a heavy construction program.

PRICES LOW

Prices for farm products in Ohio are unfavorable and in many instances below the cost of production. However, crop prospects are generally good so if any rise in prices occurs, farmers will be in a fairly comfortable state.

Kentucky crops in general are good but farmers, especially those who produce tobacco, have a pessimistic outlook mostly because of low prices. Similar conditions prevail in West Virginia where crops are plentiful but no immediate markets.

Ohio leads the field in the decline of unemployment. Hundreds of idle men in recent weeks have been provided work on public roads or through local committees in the state-wide drive to create jobs. In Kentucky, manufacturing plants are operating about 64 per cent of the time while construction work in the Kanawha valley in West Virginia has relieved the unemployment situation considerably.

Despite these conditions, which are far from satisfactory, a favorable trend swept over the entire region. Estimated car loadings from the second quarter, although below those of 1931, surpasses those for the first three months of 1932. In Kentucky retail trade is better than during the latter part of 1931, which is an indication that "the turn has come," in the opinion of the bankers.

STATE TOURNEY TO OPEN FRIDAY AT 3

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—They started arriving in Columbus today—those 16 hopeful high school basketball teams.

The greatest of all basketball spectacles, the class A and Class B finals will open to a shouting, cheering mob here tomorrow afternoon, and so the performers started coming in today.

By tonight they'll be the kings of the town.

The state capital is ready to greet them with everything in the way of welcoming it can muster.

HOTEL RATES CUT

The splendid hotels have fanned down their rates and agreed to admit the state's greatest high school basketball players at a head.

Out at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum, where all the battles will be held, they have rigged up radio equipment to tell the state how the tournament is going.

Thirteen thousand fans sat in the 1931 tournament, and from all indications the crowd that is coming from Dayton, Akron, Pomeroy, Ashland, and all the other places will break the old record.

Dayton Fairmount, Columbus North, Akron West and Ashland will bring along their high school bands adding more color to what is already the most colorful high school athletic sight anywhere.

Talk about big time basketball—why, they're going to use tared officials for every game, just so one can fall back and rest if he gets breathless from following the exciting play.

FOUR OFFICIALS

Francis W. Beacon of Marion, Rube Bechtel of Toledo, Hugh Rhee of Youngstown and Earl Gross of New Philadelphia are to divide up the work. One man will work in the center of the floor and the other two will handle the end territories.

L. N. Drake of Columbus and A. B. Long of Newark, who have been keeping score and watching the time for a decade, will be back in the harness.

Adding a certain glamour, there will be a gang of college and university coaches up in the bleachers, "scouting" for university material.

Dr. W. E. Duffee, who watches with an anxious eye the health of all the varsity stars of Ohio State university, will submit every athlete to a physical examination before the tournament of the side-liners by the doctors.

More newspaper men will be watching the tournament, than any of these boys have ever seen together before, unless they've been out at Joe's sometime.

Loss of Herman's Capers Likely To Reduce Gate For Brooklyn's Outfit

NEW YORK, March 17.—Ebbe Herman that ever picturesque baseballer, wanted $4000 more than the Brooklyn Dodgers felt he was worth for 1932 services.

Herman hemmed $19,000, the management hawed $15,000, neither offered a compromise and the result was that Herman was traded down the river to a group of strange persons known as the Cincinnati Reds.

And now there is plenty of speculation as to just what loss the Dodgers will sustain at the box office through departure of the greatest drawing card the Dodgers had.

Herman was a comedian de luxe. DID WEIRD TRICKS.

No one could quite do so many weird things with a baseball as could the Babe.

No man lived who ever performed such amazing left handed feats on the diamond.

At all times Mr. Herman was liable to perform stunts that never happened before—and could happen only with the aforesaid Mr. Herman in the leading role.

He has a patent on catching fly balls, his method being one whereby you let the ball hit you on the head and catch it on the rebound, thus saving your hands from severe shock.

Whenever Mr. Herman was on the pathways, and got a case of "marries" it was merely nothing for him to overrun the man ahead of him.

He was liable to rip the roof off the grandstand with one of his drives and then stink out in most ignominious fashion the next time up.

He could, at times, make a heave from the garden that was perfection—plus and the very next handling of the ball might end up by his beaming the lady in the pink strak hat in seat four, row eight, upper pavilion.

ALWAYS A LAUGH.

Countless thousands trekked in from all parts of Brooklyn day after day throughout the season merely to see Herman do his stuff. He never failed. They came for a laugh, they came to see heroics and the Babe would not disappoint his public.

He was more written about than any Brooklyn player.

When fans gathered and swapped notes and notations, Herman was the man who became the chief topic.

It is no exaggeration to say that Herman alone hauled at least 1000 customers daily into the Brooklyn park. Multiply that by 77 and you find that he was the reason for over $75,000 admissions. And that represents at least $60,000 in cash. Give the Dodgers 75 per cent and the total of $45,000.

Favorites in World's Steeplechase Classic

The "most gruelling race in the world," the Grand National Steeplechase, will be run again March 18 on the famous course at Aintree, Liverpool, England. International interest is always keen owing to the fact that 300,000 will witness the historic race while millions of various world-wide sweepstakes. "Sea Soldier," owned by a Chicago syndicate, is the only American bred horse in the four mile classic and is well backed in the betting. Other favorites are "Grackle," last year's winner, and "Gragalach," who took second place. It is estimated that 300,000 will witness the historic race while millions will listen to the international radio broadcast.

At the Circleville Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Street Scene," pictured from the famous Pulitzer Prize play by Elmer Rice will be presented by Samuel Goldwyn at the Cliftona Theatre Friday and Saturday. In directing the story of a warm-hearted romance and a passionate murder against the living screen of a city street, King Vidor makes of "Street Scene" his most ambitious effort since "The Big Parade."

Sylvia Sidney in whose ears still ringing the nation-wide acclaim that greeted her appearance in "An American Tragedy" has the romantic lead in the picture. William Collier, Jr. plays opposite her. Estelle Taylor follows her brilliant performance in "Cimarron" with the charming and difficult role of Mrs. Mervant, which to many of the play's multitude of friends who believe "Street Scene" to be as much a story of mother love as Goldwyn's earlier "Stella Dallas," is the most important of all.

No so much with the street, but more so with the people whose lives radiate from its misty brown-stone houses, is the play concerned. A girl who knows her mother is unfaithful, an insensitive, cruel father a cynical old Jewish socialist trying to read a purpose into life, young love trying to rise above a squalor and misery, a lonesome woman, hungry for someone to talk to, an Italian couple, longing for the baby that they can't have, the improvident poor—these are the strings that King Vidor weaves together as the play relentlessly moves toward the hysterical murder that neither ends the play nor solves life's mystery.

Not for nothing was Howard Phillips given the character name of "Alexander" in the Fox mystery drama, "The Spider," which features Edmund Lowe as a worker of magical and spiritual wonders. Fred Keating's assistant was called Alexander and as everyone knows who has seen the play upon which the picture is based, the Grand Theatre is based, it was written around the career of a magician, supposedly Keating, one of the best known prestidigitators.

The action of "The Spider" takes place on the stage and among the audience of a theatre. The drama revolves about a sister and brother, portrayed by Lois Moran and Howard Phillips separated by an uncle who seeks to rob them of their inheritance.

El Brendel and George E. Stone also play important roles. William Cameron Menzies and Kenneth MacKenna co-directed.

STATE TOURNEY TO OPEN FRIDAY AT 3

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—They started arriving in Columbus today—those 16 hopeful high school basketball teams.

The greatest of all basketball spectacles, the class A and Class B finals will open to a shouting, cheering mob here tomorrow afternoon, and so the performers started coming in today.

By tonight they'll be the kings of the town.

The state capital is ready to greet them with everything in the way of welcoming it can muster.

HOTEL RATES CUT
The splendorous hotels have yanked down their rates and agreed to admit the state's greatest high school basketball players at $1 a head.

Out at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum, where all the battles will be held, they have rigged up radio equipment to tell the state how the tournament is going.

Thirteen thousand fans sat in the 1931 tournament, and from all indications the crowd that is coming from Dayton, Akron, Pomeroy, Ashland, and all the other places will break the old record.

A program was given consisting of a piano solo by Doris Leist; recitation, "Who Killed the Grange" by Mrs. Mae McCullough; piano solo by Virginia Dreisbach; playlet, "School Board Meeting" by Mrs. Andrew Warner, Mrs. Shirley Dreisbach, Jim Mowery, Shirley Dreisbach, Mrs. Lyman Penn, Mrs. Otis Leist and Andrew Warner; recitation by James Mowery; piano solo by Eleanor Dreisbach; the concluding number was a surprise feature presented by Otis Leist and E. C. Wilkins.

AUDIENCE TO VOTE FOR BEST ACTORS

The audiences attending the performances of "The Yellow Shadow" Thursday and Friday nights at the high school auditorium, are to vote for two actors who they think are the best performers in each presentation of the show. These pupils and also the winners of the director's badge are to be presented to the audience Friday night.

Actors chosen by the audiences as the best Theatians in past plays and who are competing in "The Yellow Shadow," include Margaret Long, Gene Rader, John Maxey and John Styer. Margaret Long and Gaylord Rose have also won the director's badge.

The cast of boys and girls for this presentation has worked long and intensively to get the show clean, show, not horrifying, but thrilling and suspense sustaining.

E. I. Gephart reports an encouraging ticket sale. Basketball players and their friends are attending the Friday night performance as guests of the Little Theater.

MRS. BOGGS HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Irwin Boggs was pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening, when the resident guests at the Boggs hotel arranged a delightful party at the hotel honoring her birthday anniversary.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening and was enjoyed at two tables, with prizes for top score at the close of the game awarded Mrs. Boggs and Clifford Heiskell.

St. Patrick designs and colors were carried out in the decorations for the serving of a luncheon late in the evening. Mrs. Boggs was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Those enjoying the affair were Mrs. Boggs, Mrs. G. A. Schleyer, Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, Miss Frances Shachert, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Criswell, Paul Hohenschleyer, Clifford Heiskell and A. C. Hunt.

tors was illustrated in Schwarzkopf's latest bulletin detailing activities in the search for the baby.

The bulletin was as follows: "Betty Gow is still in the Lindbergh house and has been in the house continuously. She has never been taken to Newark, Jersey City or any place else.

"Telephone message received from Newark said a Mrs. Citrini, 2805 Riverside avenue, Newark, N. J., was in possession of valuable information that would lead to present whereabouts of Lindbergh baby.

Investigators were sent there and discovered that this was a vacant lot.

"Another phone call was received later which was checked and members of the Newark police picked up a Mr. Sherer. Mr. Sherer on being questioned stated that his mother had a dream as to where the baby was and this man is being held by Newark police. This is just another of the many bits of information we are constantly receiving."

Private envoys of the Lindberghs appeared to have made no more progress than official investigators in picking up the trail of kidnapers.

INVESTIGATORS STUMPED Morris Rosner, "Salvy" Spitalo and Irving Eitz, who undertook the task of making contact with members of the underworld, if not the kidnapers themselves if possible, in the efforts to recover the child, carried on whatever work they did today in secret.

One look is sufficient to prove that the selectors knew their job.

Herbert C. Wildey, Morristown chief of police, asked for concerted police action in the kidnap hunt. In a letter to members of the New Jersey state association of police chief, of which he is president, he said:

"The time to abandon the watchful waiting attitude in the Lindbergh kidnaping case has arrived.

"If the citizens of this nation are depending on denizens of the underworld to recover loved ones who have been ruthlessly taken from their homes, it is time the fact be made known so that state and municipal governments may dispense with their police departments andicker with the law breakers at so much at a case thereby saving the tax payers considerable money.

"The blot on the fair name of New Jersey can only be removed by the speedy and safe return of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr."

He added the solving of "this terrible outrage against society in general remains as it was two weeks ago."

Wet Plank Seen In Party Slates

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—If Monday's test vote on prohibition in the House is any criterion, both the Republican and Democratic national conventions in June are going to be hard put to fight off some sort of a wet plank in their respective platforms.

Encouraged by their showing, the organized wets in both parties are going to Chicago with fire in their eyes to wage a bitter battle for platform expressions against prohibition. Harassed party leaders, hoping for harmony, are exhibiting signs of uneasiness.

PARTIES DIVIDED.

Party division over prohibition hitherto has been regarded as principally a Democratic affliction, but the House vote showed the Republicans equally if not more affected. Analysis of the vote revealed there is little if any difference in the wet-dry split as between the parties. The Democrats divided 114 dry and 90 wet; the Republicans 112 dry and 97 wet. Sharper cleavage could hardly be imagined.

Translation of the wet votes in terms of convention delegates is somewhat difficult, but taking the Monday vote as a barometer, the wets point out that, as applied to the Republicans, 18 states rolled up the great bulk of the party wet votes in the House. And significantly enough these 18 states command more than a majority of the delegates who will sit in the Republican convention next June.

The Republican wet strength came from California, Colorado, Connecticut (solid), Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, New Jersey (solid), Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington, Nebraska, Nevada, and Wisconsin.

These states embrace a convention strength of 645 delegates, as against the 578 votes that comprise a majority of the Republican national convention.

The movement for a referendum plank in the Republican platform is admittedly gathering strength, notwithstanding the coolness shown by the White House. It is being pushed vigorously by certain members of the national committee, and supported by the Republican wets in Congress, of whom there are plenty, as revealed in Monday's vote.

The Democrats are in precisely the same situation. In the vote on Monday, 15 states which have 550 delegates in the Democratic national convention polled only eight Democratic dry votes as against 69 wet votes. These states were: California, Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Wisconsin. In the case of New York, Massachusetts and Ohio, the Democratic vote was solidly for re-submission of the 18th amendment.

Both wets and dries are poring over Monday's vote, seeking to extract comfort from it. Both are successful to some extent. The dries point out that they carried 249 congressional districts as compared with 186 for the wets. But the wets point out that the 186 congressional districts which they carried contain 52,000,000 people, or nearly half the total population of the country.

Instead of settling anything, the record vote of Monday has

And praying that her said interest in said real estate be set off to her in severalty and that partition be made of said real estate. Said Letitia A. Ward and Clarence Ward are hereby notified that they have been made parties defendant to said suit and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 16th day of April, 1932.

MEYER TERWILLIGER, Attorney for Plaintiff. Feb. 15, 25, March 2, 10, 17, 24.

The Rolling Stone

The late William Howard Taft, a great reader, hated the morality of post-war novelists. He once said at a dinner of the American Bar association: "This post-war morality urges us above all things to enjoy ourselves, to wander, see life and dodge work. It's the morality of the rolling stone."

EXPORTS OF COUNTRY SHOW DECREASE DURING 2 MONTHS

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Exports in January and February were valued at $394,906,000, a decrease of $169,038,000 the commerce department announced today.

Imports were $266,533,000, a decline of $91,561,000. In February exports had a valuation of $155,000,000, a $69,000,000 drop from the same month a year ago but an increase of $6,000,000 over January.

Imports for February were $131,000,000 a decline of $43,000,000 from Feb. 1931 and a decline of $4,000,000 from January.

The favorable balance of trade for the first two months was $33,373,000 as compared with $15,850,000.

Exports exceeded imports by $165,585,000 during the two months and by $90,626,000 in February. Silver imports exceeded exports by $1,553,000 during the first two months.

Exports increased in February over January for the first time since 1916. This undoubtedly was attributable to the conflict in the far East. As the seasonal trend for exports from January to February is downward.

Exports of cotton in January and February amounted to 1,850,000 bales compared with 966,000 bales in the same period of 1931. The valuation for this year was $73,000,000 compared with $56,000,000 last year.

COTTON INCREASES

For the 7 months August to February, cotton exports were 5,925,000 bales an increase of 1,013,000 bales over the same period last year.

The far east continued to be the principal buyers of cotton, Japan having taken 1,695,000 bales compared with 732,000 bales last year, while exports to China were three times as large as 1931. Italy took 97,000 bales more than last year.

Cotton exports to the United Kingdom for the seven months were the same as last year while exports to Germany and France were smaller.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NOTES

Charles Winner enrolled in the 7th grade Monday. He formerly attended Madison Twp School.

Thelma Winner from Madison enrolled in the fourth grade this week.

Having completed their text book the 8th grade plans to have an extensive review of history for the remainder of the school year.

Events of the present, as well as of the past, will be studied by the class.

In the Junior High Basketball Tournament held last week the 7th & 8th grade girls defeated the Freshman second team 20-19, and the 7 grade boys defeated the 8th grade 8-7.

Jean Brinker is absent because of guarantee.

Miss Cromely, 5th grade teacher is still out of school.

Bessie Hedges moved to Walnut Twp, this week but will continue his school work here until the end of the term.

Lee Walters and Bessie Hedges took part in the Musical Program, Friday March 11.

Several teachers in the Ashville Schools are preparing for the Pickaway County teachers examination to be given in April.

The Columbian Achievement tests for the month of March will be given in grades 3 to 8 inclusive—sometime during the week of March 14th. This test will determine rather accurately the progress that has been made by each individual student during the past year.

The annual class basketball tournament was held in the Ashville High School auditorium last week on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Admission of 5 to 10 cents.

PERRY-TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

There were 46 pupils absent Monday. Most of the absence was caused by the numps and flu.

Mr. Raymond was called to Gallipolis last Thursday on account of the death of Mrs. Raymond's father. Mrs. Florence Campbell substituted Thursday and Friday in his room.

Jane Hope Skinner of the second grade who was seriously ill and had been very much improved had a relapse Friday. She was slightly better Monday.

George Clements who has been in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, for several days, was expected home Sunday. It was later decided to wait a few days. We are glad to know that George is improving, but sorry to hear that he will be unable to resume his studies this year.

The following families have moved out of the district: C. M. Carter, to Jackson; Wade Cook, to Chillicothe; Guy Speakman, Sherman Thacker, and Clark Eisenbrey to New Holland; Fannie Kirk to Circleville; Isabel and Virginia Cook, George and Willis Speakman, Everett Thacker and John Kirk are remaining in the district to complete the school year.

We have gained from other districts, J. M. Steele's family from Jackson; the Pearl Bowdle, Har-

HEARS SINGER IN COLUMBUS

Miss Helen Marion, Mrs. J. P. Moffitt, Miss Mary Heffner, Miss Gretchen Moeller, Miss Helen Bartholomew and Miss Mary Rader were local persons who heard Rosa Ponselle Wednesday evening at the Memorial Hall in Columbus.

The Ponselle program was tastefully arranged in two parts of three groups each. Vocal groups alternated with piano groups played by the singer's able accompanist, Stuart Ross.

The program was sponsored by the Women's Music Club of Columbus.

HOSTESS TO BRIDGE CLUB WEDNESDAY

Miss Lillian Young was hostess Wednesday evening to the members of her bridge club at her home on S. Scioto-st.

Two tables of cards were assembled and enjoyed a pleasant evening. Score prizes in the game went to Mrs. M. S. Rinehart, Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer and Mrs. Walter Potts.

Tempting refreshments, served by the hostess brought the delightful evening to a close.

The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Ray Reid.

AUDIENCE TO VOTE FOR BEST ACTORS

The audiences attending the performances of "The Yellow Shadow," Thursday and Friday nights at the high school auditorium, are to vote for two actors who they think are the best performers in each presentation of the show. These pupils and also the winners of the director's badge are to be presented to the audience Friday night.

Actors chosen by the audiences as the best Thespians in past plays and who are competing in "The Yellow Shadow," include Margaret

Queen of May

Long, Gene Rader, John Maxey and John Styers, Margaret Long and Gaylord Rose have also won the director's badge.

The cast of boys and girls for this presentation has worked long and intensively to get the show ready before Holy week. It is a clean show, not horrifying; but thrilling and suspense sustaining.

E. I. Gephart reports an encouraging ticket sale. Basketball players and their friends are attending the Friday night performance as guests of the Little Theater.

MRS. BOGGS HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Irwin Boggs was pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening, when the resident guests at the Boggs hotel arranged a delightful party at the hotel honoring her birthday anniversary.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening and was enjoyed at two tables, with prizes for top score at the close of the game awarded Mrs. Boggs and Clifford Heiskell.

St. Patrick designs and colors were carried out in the decorations for the serving of a luncheon late in the evening. Mrs. Boggs was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Those enjoying the affair were Mrs. Boggs, Mrs. G. A. Schleyer, Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, Miss Frances Shachert, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Criswell, Paul Hohenschleyer, Clifford Heiskell and A. C. Hunt.

The bulletin was as follows: "Betty Gow is still in the Lindbergh house and has been in the house continuously. She has never been taken to Newark, Jersey City or any place else.

"Telephone message received from Newark said a Mrs. Citranni, 2305 Riverside avenue, Newark, N. J., was in possession of valuable information that would lead to present whereabouts of Lindbergh baby. Investigators were sent there and discovered that this was a vacant lot.

"Another phone call was received later which was checked and members of the Newark police picked up a Mr. Sherer. Mr. Sherer on being questioned stated that his mother had a dream as to where the baby was and this man is being held by Newark police. This is just another of the many bits of information we are constantly receiving."

Private envoys of the Lindberghs appear to have made no more progress than official investigators in picking up the trail of kidnappers.

Wet Plank Seen In Party Slates

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—If Monday's test vote on prohibition in the House is any criterion, both the Republican and Democratic national conventions in June are going to be hard put to fight off some sort of a wet plank in their respective platforms.

Encouraged by their showing, the organized wets in both parties are going to Chicago with fire in their eyes to wage a bitter battle for platform expressions against prohibition. Harassed party leaders, hoping for harmony, are exhibiting signs of uneasiness.

PARTIES DIVIDED.

Party division over prohibition hitherto has been regarded as principally a Democratic affliction, but the House vote showed the Republicans equally if not more affected. Analysis of the vote revealed there is little if any difference in the wet-dry split as between the parties. The Democrats divided 114 dry and 90 wet; the Republicans 112 dry and 97 wet. Sharper cleavage could hardly be imagined.

Translation of the wet votes in terms of convention delegates is somewhat difficult, but taking the Monday vote as a barometer, the wets point out that, as applied to the Republicans, 18 states rolled up the great bulk of the party wet vote in the House. And significantly enough these 18 states command more than a majority of the delegates who will sit in the Republican convention next June.

The Republican wet strength came from California, Colorado, Connecticut (solid), Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, New Jersey (solid), Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington, Nebraska, Nevada, and Wisconsin.

These states embrace a convention strength of 645 delegates, as against the 578 votes that comprise a majority of the Republican national convention.

The movement for a referendum

plank in the Republican platform is admittedly gathering strength, notwithstanding the coolness shown by the White House. It is being pushed vigorously by certain members of the national committee, and supported by the Republican wets in Congress, of whom there are plenty, as revealed in Monday's vote.

The Democrats are in precisely the same situation. In the vote on Monday, 15 states which have 550 delegates in the Democratic national convention polled only eight Democratic dry votes as against 69 wet votes. These states were: California, Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Wisconsin. In the case of New York, Massachusetts and Ohio, the Democratic vote was solidly for re-submission of the 18th amendment.

Both wets and drys are poring over Monday's vote, seeking to extract comfort from it. Both are successful to some extent. The drys point out that they carried 249 congressional districts as compared with 186 for the wets. But the wets point out that the 186 congressional districts which they carried contain 52,000,000 people, or nearly half the total population of the country.

Instead of settling anything, the record vote of Monday has
